The Student Health Physician provides comprehensive primary and episodic care to professional and graduate students through both in-person and telehealth visits. This role involves managing common acute conditions and injuries, as well as providing longitudinal care for chronic conditions typical in this population (e.g., asthma, allergies, migraines, gastrointestinal issues, eating disorders, and musculoskeletal concerns). A key focus of the role is inclusive reproductive and sexual health care for all genders. Physicians are also expected to conduct routine depression screenings and demonstrate comfort and competence in addressing mental health and sexual health topics.

Additionally, the physician supports Tufts' travel medicine services for students participating in university-affiliated travel programs. This service is expanding to include faculty, staff, and students across multiple campuses (Boston, Grafton, and Maine), and the physician will help develop and support this initiative. While this role does not include occupational health or urgent care for faculty/staff, collaboration with colleagues and providing consultative support to other clinical team members is essential.

- Provide primary and episodic care to graduate and professional students through both in-person appointments and telehealth visits, in collaboration with the clinical team
- Deliver inclusive reproductive and sexual health care for all genders, with a focus on comprehensive, patient-centered support.
- Diagnose and manage common acute illnesses and injuries, and provide ongoing care for chronic conditions such as asthma, allergies, migraines, gastrointestinal disorders, eating disorders, and musculoskeletal issues.
- Conduct routine depression screenings for all students and coordinate referrals to in-house or external behavioral health providers as appropriate; demonstrate comfort and skill in addressing mental health and sexual health topics.
- Support the Medical Director in the development of travel medicine services for Tufts University faculty and staff, as well as graduate and professional students from the Boston and Grafton campuses traveling on university-related business.
- Provide travel medicine consultations, including pre-travel and post-travel evaluations when indicated to graduate and professional students across the Boston, Grafton, and Maine campuses participating in Tufts-sponsored work or study travel.
- Administrative responsibilities include the use of the electronic medical record (EMR) system for clinical documentation, appointment scheduling, and maintaining records that meet professional and institutional standards.
