The neurology service provides care in the Foster Hospital for Small Animals (FHSA) and the Hospital for Large Animals (HLA) on the Grafton campus. The FHSA and HLA are fully equipped multi-specialty teaching hospitals, offering referral services and 24/7 emergency care. The FHSA caseload is primarily dogs, cats, and exotic species, with approximately 35,000 cases per year. The neurology caseload typically consists of referral cases and animals admitted by the emergency service in the FHSA for neurologic emergencies. Clinical service at Cummings School includes shared back up on-call for the neurology residents who consult on emergency cases during nights and weekends. Neurosurgery on-call is shared with Orthopedic Surgery.

The neurology service is supported by outstanding radiology, critical care (24 hours), oncology, medicine, cardiology, ophthalmology, anesthesia, and orthopedic surgery services. Available state-of-the-art equipment includes a linear accelerator, a 160 slice Aquilion Exceed LB™, 3.0 Tesla MRI, fluoroscopy, scintigraphy, Codman® ICP express, and electrodiagnostic equipment for muscle and nerve testing including EEG.

Faculty are expected to assist with specialty board review sessions, journal club, and other aspects of resident training, including supervision of resident research projects. Clinical faculty are expected to engage in sufficient research and scholarly activity to remain current in the discipline. There are many opportunities to develop independent or collaborative research projects with faculty on this campus or with researchers on other Tufts campuses and within the New England medical community.

Clinical track faculty typically devote approximately 30 weeks (~60%) to clinical activity, ~5 - 8 weeks to scholarly activity, ~5 - 8 weeks to teaching, and ~4 to administrative service. Clinical faculty are expected to engage in sufficient research and scholarly activity to remain current in the field. There are many opportunities to develop independent or collaborative research projects with faculty on this campus or with researchers on other Tufts campuses and within the New England medical community. All scholarly activity is valued in the school's promotions process. The remainder of the time is available as vacation and university time off (five weeks).
